- If you encounter difficulty during the swim, raise your hand get the attention of water safety. Any assistance provided beyond an object to lean on and catch your breath you will have to withdraw from the race.

Transition Area:

- You must have your torso covered on both the cycle and the run - swimmers are acceptable for females.
- Your helmet must be fastened securely before you remove your bike from the rack and must be kept done up until after you replace your bike on the rack. You will be stopped if you do not obey this rule.
- No riding in the transition area - you must mount and dismount your bike in the marked zones.
- All biking and running gear in the transition area must be kept together in a tidy pile before and after use.
- If you knock over another competitor's equipment, it must be put back to its original state.

Bike Course:

- Do not get too close to the person in front of you on the bike - this is called "drafting" and is not allowed in Triathlon. You must ride single file keeping to the left, and stay four bike lengths behind the competitor in front of you.
- You must keep to the left at all times, unless you are passing someone in front of you.
- If you want to overtake someone you have 15 seconds to do so and you must be gaining on the person in front at all times during that period. The correct way to pass is to stay on the left, ride up behind the person in front, when you are close enough, go around them on the right (checking behind you first) and once you have passed them, immediately move back to the left side of the road.
- If you get passed, you must immediately drop back four bike lengths so you are out of the "draft zone".
- You may not speed up once someone's wheel has gone past yours to catch up with them again. You must drop out of the draft zone first before you attempt to overtake them.

Run Course:

You must keep your torso covered and shoes on your feet until the finish.

Cycle Helmet Safety

When riding your bike, you must wear a proper bike helmet. It must be properly fitted, securely fastened and approved by a testing authority ie Australian Standards.

Tips for a correct fit

1. Position the helmet so that it protects your forehead (1-2 fingers above your eyebrows).
2. Secure the clip on the strap under your chin and tighten the strap up so you can still fit one finger under it to make sure it isn't too tight.
3. The plastic clips on each side of the strap should be slid up to make a triangle that meets just below your ears.
4. The helmet should fit your head so that it touches on all side and can't be slid forwards, backwards or side to side. Use the extra pads supplied with your helmet to ensure a snug fit.

If you have a crash and bump your helmet, you should buy a new one, even if you can't see anything wrong with it. The foam in your helmet provides protection by absorbing the impact. This impact compresses the foam, reducing its future effectiveness.
